

Dennis Dautrich

Senior Printer Technical Representative Sappi North America

Dennis Dautrich serves as printer technical representative for Sappi North America, ensuring comprehensive technical support of Sappi's strategic national end user, printer, and publishing accounts. Since joining the company in 2007, Dennis has gained experience leading the resolution of complex, technically challenging issues and opportunities across all regions of the Sappi business, while demonstrating sophisticated problem-solving skills and thoughtful customer sensitivity.

Dennis is a member of the Sappi ETC (Education, Training & Consulting) team, working closely with the regional and national sales groups to ensure proper allocation of technology service resources to key customers and initiatives. Dennis is responsible for customer support throughout the western region, including Texas, Minnesota, and Western Canada. Dennis is certified as a Color Management Professional, Color Management Professional—Print, and a G7 Expert.

Dennis has extensive experience in the printing industry, operating and managing both sheetfed and web offset printing systems. He served as Director of Manufacturing Operations at George Rice & Sons, Los Angeles with responsibility for production operations that included pressroom, bindery, quality assurance, and facility maintenance. During his 29 year tenure at George Rice & Sons, Dennis also held positions of lead web press operator and web pressroom supervisor. Most recently Dennis served as manager of sheetfed and web pressroom operations at Graphic Press in Los Angeles.

Dennis holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Interdisciplinary Studies from New York Institute of Technology, as well as a printing management certificate from Pasadena City College.

During his free time, Dennis enjoys hiking, photography, and spending time with family (which includes three Golden Retrievers).
